Norman, 87, of Houston passed away Sunday, August 30, 2014 in College Station. Services will be at 2:00 o’clock Wednesday, September 3, at Brookside Funeral Home in Houston. Visitation was held Tuesday from 5:00-8:00 PM at funeral home.

Norman was born in Houston, joining the United States Navy when he was just seventeen years old. He was chosen to train in the engineering department and develop his skills in mechanical and architect drawing, drafting, physics and math. After serving in World War II on a newly developed naval destroyer, he worked in the water and oil well industry for over 60 years, designing, building, and modifying screen filtration machinery, a career in which he enjoyed and continued to work in until his final days.

He enjoyed fishing and boating along with many outdoor activities but especially fishing. He shared his knowledge and talents with his family and friends for the greater part of his life and provided many solutions and opportunities to those that he met. He will be missed and loved by many.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Clyde Russell Corgey and Olive Elgin Corgey; sister, Norma Lee Wenckenes; a son, Tommy Wayne Corgey and his wife Frances Oleta Corgey.

Norman is survived by his wife, Sue Corgey of College Station; son, Russell Corgey and wife Debbie of Conroe; daughter, Jenny Fincher and husband Edward of Pasadena, Texas; stepson, Roy Shelton and wife Melissa of College Station; stepdaughter, Trish Howard and husband Cory of College Station; his brother, Leldon Corgey; and sisters, Jaunice Thompson of Houston, and Charlene Hughes of Anchorage, Alaska; 14 grandchildren, 8 great-grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews and extended family.
